

IMMUNE SYSTEM AND DIETARY ADAPTATIONS

March 16th (Tuesday), 12pm

BS in Biology at the Tashkent State University, Ph.D. in Biochemistry at the Moscow State University. Currently, RM is a professor in the Department of Molecular, Cellular, and Developmental Biology at Yale University. Medzhitov's research focuses on various aspects of innate immunity, including molecular mechanisms of innate immune recognition, control of adaptive immune responses by innate immune recognition, and mechanisms of autoimmunity and allergy. In addition, RM has been named an assistant investigator for the Howard Hughes Medical Institute.
