

IMMUNE RESPONSE IN LEISHMANIASIS AND THE ROLE OF SAND FLY SALIVARY PROTEINS

May 25th (Tuesday), 12pm

BS in Biological Sciences and Ph.D. in Biology of the Pathogen-Host Interaction from the University of São Paulo. Currently, CI is an affiliate member of the Brazilian Academy of Sciences, a researcher at the Research Centre Gonçalo Moniz/FIOCRUZ, professor of Pathology and Health Sciences in UFBA, and an Assistant Professor at the Bahia Foundation for the Development of Science. She has experience in the field of Parasitology, with an emphasis in Protozoology Parasite and Leishmaniasis, and she has been developing studies to understand the interaction between Leishmania and the vertebrate host.

Dr. Camila Índiani